Fast Freddie has legendary time at show

Freddie Spencer is the youngest 500GP world champion and still the only man to win a 250GP and 500GP title in the same year. He has just finished a weekend taking part in Revolution, the stunt and entertainment part of the Carole Nash MCN motorcycle show.

I didn't really know what to expect from the Revolution show before I got there but it has been a fantastic weekend and I have really enjoyed myself. I'd not sat on a trials bike since I was nine years old so it was a shock to get on one after such a long time.

I thought the whole show was inspiring. Once we got onto the XR dirtbikes I was in my element.

That was good fun and there was a bit of a blue groove appearing on the floor from the tyres by the end of the weekend. I was sure we were going to be able to get some of the footpegs down and give off some sparks.

I've always loved coming over to the UK because the British fans are so knowledgeable and it has been a great overall experience coming here. I think UK fans have always been able to show their appreciation for a good job done. They are amazingly passionate about bikes and bike racing and I love that.

I'm not going home yet. I've got a full week of stuff to do in the UK both for Michelin and for Honda. I'm then heading over to Spain with Michelin for a track event at Cartagena.

I'll be at a couple of Honda dealers this week and then I am going to an Oswestry Road Racing Club fundraiser for injured riders.

The whole show was inspiring. Good fun on the XR dirtbikes
